

Oxford
University
Press

200 Madison Avenue, New York, N. Y. 10016

Telephone 679-7300 Area Code 212

6 December 1967

Professor G. Vitucci
Faculty of Letters
Universita degli Studi
Citta Universitaria
Rome, Italy

Dear Professor Vitucci:

Fowler: ROME (Second Edition; Galaxy Book 216, 1967; $1.25 paper)

The above-mentioned book is a recent publication of Oxford University Press in New York. It is ideally suited, we think, for student use in university and college level courses.

I am taking the liberty of sending you a gratis examination copy with our compliments and hope, if you find it to your liking, that you will suggest its use to your students as a required book or recommended reading. It is the usual custom of American publishers to furnish university professors and instructors with free examination copies. There is no obligation in your receiving this book and please do not feel that you must return it to us. We would, however, appreciate receiving any comments you may care to make as to the book's suitability for your courses. Also if you yourself are no longer teaching the course for which this book is intended, I would appreciate your passing the book on to the person now most directly concerned.

If you should decide to prescribe or recommend this book, will you please notify your local booksellers of this fact so they may secure adequate stock before the books are needed.

If I can be of any further assistance to you, please let me know.

Cordially yours,

Claude L. Wooten

Claude L. Wooten
Assistant Manager
Export Department